

MSA Announces First Quarter Results

PITTSBURGH, April 22, 2014 /PRNewswire/ -- Global safety equipment manufacturer MSA (NYSE: MSA) today reported results for the first quarter of 2014.

Quarterly Summary

- Order activity and backlog are at healthy levels heading into the second quarter.
- Revenue from continuing operations was $265 million, down 2 percent from the first quarter of 2013. Income from continuing operations was $14 million. Quarterly continuing earnings per basic share was $0.37.
- Excluding foreign exchange losses and restructuring charges, adjusted earnings were $15 million, or $0.40 per basic share.

"Our first quarter results reflect the overall impact of generally challenging business conditions, especially outside of the U.S. And inside the U.S., the temporary obstacles caused by product approval delays has adversely effected our sales of SCBA to the fire service market," said William M. Lambert, MSA President and CEO. "Despite these obstacles, however, we continue to see solid results in nearly all of our core product areas, which now represent almost three fourths of MSA's global business," he added.

Excluding a 22 percent decline in North American sales of self-contained breathing apparatus (SCBA) resulting from ongoing delays in securing regulatory product approvals, sales of MSA core products were up 3 percent for the quarter in local currency while margins in these product groups increased 130 basis points when compared to the equivalent period of a year ago.

In addition, Mr. Lambert reported the company's recent launch of several high impact new core products in SCBA, hard hats and portable instruments is receiving highly favorable customer feedback.

Quarterly Reporting Segment Analysis:

First quarter sales in MSA's North American segment increased by $1 million compared to the same period of 2013. A $6 million decline in SCBA revenue associated with the aforementioned product certification delays was offset by improvements of $5 million and $2 million in portable gas detection and head protection product sales, respectively. Net income was flat when compared to a year ago, as improved product margins were offset by higher levels of selling, general and administrative expense and a higher effective tax rate.

Sales in MSA's European segment increased by $2 million, or 2 percent, compared to the same period last year. Excluding favorable currency effects from a strengthening euro, sales declined by $1 million as strength from ballistic helmet shipments and fixed gas and flame detection sales were offset by a lower level of SCBA and portable gas detection sales. Local currency net income decreased by $2 million primarily related to higher selling, general and administrative expense and an increase in restructuring charges.

Continuing sales in MSA's International segment decreased $7 million, or 11 percent, compared to prior year on the impact of weakening foreign currencies. Local currency sales were relatively flat in the quarter as higher portable gas detection sales were offset by a lower level of fixed gas and flame detection revenue. Excluding a $1 million unfavorable currency effect, local currency net income decreased by $3 million on higher research and development costs and increased restructuring charges resulting from ongoing cost reduction efforts in Australia.

"While challenges in certain markets persist, order activity and backlog are at healthy levels as we head into the second quarter. This, combined with our recent introduction of exciting new products, is a positive indicator for cautious optimism moving forward," Mr. Lambert noted. "Even with the regulatory-related setbacks in the U.S. fire service over the past several quarters, which I continue to see as temporary, our product development efforts are keeping MSA very well positioned for the longer term. Temporary setbacks notwithstanding, I remain convinced in our ability to execute our strategy to enhance our brand, the most trusted name in safety, and continue to grow the value of our company," Mr. Lambert concluded.

MSA's sales are allocated to each country based primarily on the destination of the end-customer. Effective January 1, 2014, the General Monitors business has been fully integrated into MSA. As such, sales made by General Monitors companies now follow a similar allocation methodology by which sales are allocated to each country based on the destination of the end-customer and the value added to that order. In prior years, sales made by General Monitors companies were reported as domestic sales based on the country from which the product was shipped. The 2013 results presented above have been restated to reflect this change in allocation methodology.

Adjusted continuing operations revenue is a non-GAAP measure. Management believes that it is important for investors to analyze continuing revenue trends excluding the impact of fluctuating foreign currencies, consistent with the methodology that management uses to perform trend analysis. However, weakening or strengthening foreign currencies may have a material impact on the company's reported results. As such, it is appropriate to consider both continuing operations revenue on a GAAP basis as well as adjusted continuing operations revenue. Management does not use this non-GAAP financial measure for any purpose other than the reasons stated above.

Management believes that adjusted earnings and adjusted earnings per share are useful measures for investors when analyzing ongoing operating trends. There can be no assurances that additional special items will not occur in future periods, nor that MSA's definition of adjusted earnings is consistent with that of other companies. As such, management believes that it is appropriate to consider both net income determined on a GAAP basis as well as adjusted earnings. Management does not use these non-GAAP financial measures for any purpose other than the reasons stated above.
